Clem Bailey's Own Story.

The Mystery of Perkins Corner.

"Wa'al, to begin with, I aint no news bug, but the folks at the corners where I live had been stirred up over this mystery for a long time, and we felt, in justice to the town, the time had at last arrived when we should investigate and find out the truth of the whole affair. So we met down at Herb's grocery store. Joe Jackson, the first selectman, presided at the meeting, and Lade Adams, he suggested the most advisable way to get at the details, and Herb Siggins, he's the postmaster as well as the store-keeper and Justice of the peace, was called on to tell what he knew. So Herb he lit one of them new brand of cigars that he gets a rake off for selling, an' started in to tell what he had seen, an' heard about the mystery.

"This thing got started about two months ago, as far as I can remember, one afternoon when there didn't happen to be anybody in the store. Clem came in, walked around a little and bought a two cent stamp, went up in that corner and plastered it on the letter, then, by gosh, he turned plum around and went out of the store with the letter in his hand. I watched him out of sight down the road. He waited for Jimmy Stevens to come along with the mail waggin, and he ups and give the letter to him, stead of leaving it in the letter box here at the store. That got me to thinkin' there was something Clem had up his sleeve, so I never said nothin' about it, an' bimeby a letter came addressed to Clem Bailey, from New York, an' I give it a good lookin' over, an' come darn near getting caught at it, too, for I was just holdin' it up in front of the lamp when Clem showed up in front of the store, so I had time to chuck it in among the other letters an' papers, when he come an' asked if there was any mail for him, sheepish like. I passed him out the letter, and he took it an' put it in his inside pocket and looked out ov the store. He gin me a sly look as he went out, and I says to myself, I've caught you, old feller. He was gone just long enough to get clear of the winders when back he come and bought two two cent stamps, turned around and went out agin, an' that was the last I see'd of him 'till he come agin' to get another letter from New York three days afterwards. So you see now he had gin the other letter to Jimmy on the road somewhere. I was convinced by this time that the folks at the corners had a mystery on their hands that was worthy of Sherlock Holmes at his best; or Simon Parsons, our sleuth constable, for that matter, even if Sime did run Deacon Smith's hen roost robbin' to earth, and get the whole bunch of 'em thirty days in jail.

"So I told Hen. Brown about it, and Hen. said he had a cousin in the city that knewed about them things; he was janitor one time in the city building, and was right in touch with all kinds of criminals, and them sitch, and we would wait 'till we heard from him before proceeding further. So Hen wrote to him and before we got the letter back you fellers know Clem rode over to Rogers-town, and took the train for New York; at least that's the place Ezra Thompson said he got it for, and we suppose he did, an' you all know what happened after he got back. He shingled that old barn, put a new wire fence around his whole lot that must cost him thirty dollars, an' painted his house, hired Tommy King to do the work, too stuck up to do it himself, his wife come out with a new dress and a whole lot of cuffed duds, and the climax come when Clem got to ridin' around in an automobile; so I say now, as honest, God-fearin' citizens of Perkins corners that we appoint the first selectman to call as a committee of one (more if necessary) and ask Clem to explain to the folks and the church his mysterious comings and goings since he took the first letter out of this office from them fellers in New York." Thus reasoned the village oracle, so with no opposition from anybody present the Honorable

Joseph Jackson, first selectman of Perkins Corners, arose, buttoned his coat, arranged his tie, smoothed back his hair, and otherwise got into gear as becomes the first selectman—who has a huge amount of personal, as well as political dignity to uphold. I said he arose—he did arise, both from the cracker barrel and to the occasion—and he remarked: "Looks to me as though I had better go down and see Clem before dark," so with this out of his system, he started for the door—honk! honk! honk! Something stopped at the door. One looked at the other, the mountain didn't come to Mahomet—Clem came to the post office, and saved the first selectman afore mentioned from a professional call at his residence in the interest of the uplift and moral aspect of the society of Perkins Corners. The selectman resumed his seat on the cracker barrel. The suspense was so drawn out I could hear the cat sing under the stove. The door opened and the much talked of citizen of the corners entered, and what is more, as Kipling says, he closed the door. He went along to the counter and nobody waited on him. Sparring for time he dug up a long roll of greens. The audience looked at them suspiciously to ascertain if they were genuine, for there was a suspicion already afloat. Jerry Sellers, the meat pedlar, had got a lead half dollar in his change lately. Clem looked the gang over, and sorter smiled a little.

Old man Adams ups an' blurted out: "Aint that the critter that's got the whole town stirred up over his capers with a lot of New York bunco-steerers?" 'Bout that time in walks St. Parsons, an' he had his badge on the outside of his coat. I knowed that meant he was after somebody. Si he walks up to Clem an' sez: "Clem, I s'pose I got ter 'rest you as a suspicious character." Clem laughed a little easy, as he allers does, an' he says: "I s'pose you fellers are a whole lot curious to know what I been up to over in New York," sez Clem. At this the Hon. Joseph Jackson speaks up, an' sez: "I allow, Clem, it's about time for you to explain a few things to the satisfaction of the folks 'round the corners, and I guess Elder Babbitt would like to know, too, 'specially as you allers was as poor as a razor back hog, an' now own the only ortombee in Perkins corners, an' hev quit tappin' shoes, and we will have to ask you to explain, Clem."

It was his powers of oratory that first attracted the attention of the folks at the corners, and that lead to his being chosen the first man of the town, and he was proud of the way he put the question, kinder easy like, to Clem sorter not hurt his feelin's; that was one of the things that went to make Joe Jackson a big man.

Clem thought a little while, and finally unloosened, as he saw he was up against the judgment of his peers, and his family standing as well. So he started in an' told the whole yarn. He said: "I'll start at the beginnin', and tell all the particulars from the time I left the Corners 'till I got back with the goods. (Si inspected his handcuffs). I got a letter from a fellow in New York who said he was hard up just now and had a few gold bricks left over when he went out of the mint business, and he didn't want to sell them to the trusts, and he was looking for a few honest men to sell them to on the quiet, so he could go out of business and retire. Waal, I reckon I am an honest man, if I do say it myself, and I thought that being as he was going out of the mint business I would buy up a few of them bricks at twenty-five per cent of the weight of them, so I sold John Siggins the brindle cow and drewed all the money I had out the bank, and went over to New York and met the feller. He was a perfect gentleman and used me fine. He asked me how much money I had brought and I told him, three hundred dollars. Waal we went into a jewelry store and he took a gold brick out of his pocket, and the jeweler feller weighed it, and he sez "That will weigh up to two thousand dollars." We come out of the store, he put the brick in his pocket, and we walked about all over the city. Finally we went into a saloon and went up stairs, and it was rather dark in the room. He says: "Now here's the brick and cough up that money." I pulled the three hundred dollars out, and told him that was all I had, and he said "Well, take that brick, and get out of here, and don't try to find me, for I won't be here." So I took the brick and went out. Jest had money enough to get back home with. So I thought I would cash in the gold brick, as there wasn't anybody ter home that wanted to buy gold. So I went to a jeweler, and he weighed the brick and writ me a check for twenty-two hundred dollars. I told the jeweler feller where I got it, and he said, "You better go home right now—he gave you the wrong brick."

MAINE APPLE GROWERS.

The apple growers in Maine, one of the leading apple States of the Union, have a grievance against the buyers and the world in general. They complain that the buyers who gather in carload lots at every four corners have manufactured a scare out of the war and have forced down prices without reason. It appears that apples for which the orchardists are getting only $1 to $1.50 a barrel—and the barrel itself costs the orchardist about 40 cents—are selling in Boston at $3 to $4 a barrel. Also that the same high prices prevail in the English market which seeks more apples, rather than fewer this year, and that the German market, which is the only foreign market shut off by the war, cuts little or no figure in the American apple crop.

But if the depressed prices at the orchard and in the farmhouse cellar are without good reason, the apple grower in Maine has the remedy in his own hands. If he does not want to take his apples to the big city market himself, as an individual or in co-operation with his neighbors, he can apparently make good money by meeting the demands of the neglected market in the nearby Maine cities. With many thousands of barrels of high grade apples left in the orchards only a few miles away, all the larger Maine cities are today offering for sale Pacific coast and Northwestern apples, often inferior in quality to the wasting Maine fruit, but gaining purchasers by being neatly wrapped in tissue and attractively displayed in small boxes. It is the same in our Massachusetts cities.

The lesson is plain enough. A big and growing market is at the doors of the orchardist, and if he lets the grower 3000 miles away steal the market from him he is simply lacking in enterprise. No part of the world can raise better apples than New England. Is it too big a problem to pack the apples properly and to market them intelligently and fairly?—Boston Herald.

THIS IS CERTAIN

The Proof That Belfast Readers Cannot Deny.

What could furnish stronger evidence of the efficiency of any remedy than the test of time? Thousands of people testify that Doan's Kidney Pills have brought lasting results. Home endorsement should prove undoubtedly the merit of this remedy. Years ago your friends and neighbors testified to the relief they had derived from the use of Doan's Kidney Pills. They now confirm their testimonials. They say time has completed the test.

"I had been annoyed at intervals for a long time by pains through my back and kidneys," says B. Robinson, retired blacksmith of No. 6 Waldo avenue, Belfast. "Any exertion or a cold that settled in my kidneys caused me much pain and discomfort. After I used Doan's Kidney Pills my strength returned and I could work with ease. I never let an opportunity pass whenever I hear anyone complaining of backache to say a good word for Doan's Kidney Pills."

STILL USES DOAN'S. At a later date Mr. Robinson said: "I still use Doan's Kidney Pills when ever I think that my kidneys are not just right and they fix me up in a very short time. We always keep them in the house. I confirm all I said in their praise in years past. I still consider Doan's Kidney Pills the best kidney medicine to be had."

Seeking the Largest Trees.

(From the Forest Service, U. S. Department of Agriculture.)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31, 1914. Foresters of the United States are interested in the announcement recently made by the American Genetic Association that two prizes of $100 each have been offered for two photographs—one of the largest tree of a nut-bearing variety in the United States, and one of the largest broad-leaf tree which does not bear edible seeds. In the first class, for example, are included trees such as chestnut, oak, walnut, butternut and pecan; and in the second, trees such as elm, birch, maple, cottonwood and tulip poplar. No photographs of cone-bearing trees are wanted, since it is definitely known that the California big trees have no rivals among conifers. At a later time the association may take up the same question as between the various kinds of conifers, as pines, spruces, firs, cedars, and cypresses.

The purpose of the competition, as stated by the association, is to find out in what regions the native trees attain their largest growth, and under what conditions they thrive best. When these large trees are located and the measurements authenticated, the association hopes that it may be possible to secure seeds, cuttings, or grafting wood from thrifty trees in the region where they grow, to see whether finer specimens may be propagated in other parts of the country.

It is hoped in this manner to get some particularly choice strains of native trees established in regions where good specimens are not now found.

THE INFLUENCE OF HEREDITY. It is assumed by the association that seed from the region where the largest trees grow ought to produce larger and stronger trees than from regions where only small trees are found. By finding out where the large trees are and then planting seeds from them in other locations, the association hopes to demonstrate the practical value to horticulture and forestry of the laws of heredity. Now that reforestation is becoming a pressing problem, the question of seed trees which will produce particularly good offspring is naturally coming to the fore.

Other influences, of course, will have a bearing on the subject, and the results of the investigation may help to settle the question as to whether trees can be acclimated. Even if they can not be, there may be cases where trees in a new environment may make better growth than the best in their native range. This is said to be true of certain of the Australian eucalypts, and of the Monterey pine, which does not amount to much in its native location in California but has proved of great value in New Zealand.

The federal forest service has conducted some studies along this line and has discovered, for example, that the Douglas fir of the Rocky Mountains and the Douglas fir of the Pacific Coast, while the same species, have different characteristics and will produce trees like the parent stock, modified somewhat, however, by environment. For example, if the two forms are planted together, during the earlier period of its life at least, the Pacific Coast form will make a larger and stronger growth than the Rocky Mountain tree, provided it is not affected by adverse local conditions.

Several other questions, such as the climatic requirements of trees grown in different localities, will, of course, enter into the final solution of the problem. It has been found in Germany, for example, that the Pacific Coast form of Douglas fir is not so hardy as the Rocky Mountain form, which has to endure in its native habitat severe extremes of temperature, and German foresters have been working to discover a strain of Douglas fir which will combine, as far as far as possible, the hardness of the Rocky Mountain form and the large size of the Pacific Coast form.

TREES ARE FASTIDIOUS. Some authorities go so far as to say that even the ingenuity and perseverance of men are unable to induce trees to change their habits far enough to adopt a country not closely like their native habitat.

This fastidiousness in the habits of trees has it good and its bad sides, they say. It absolutely limits the forester's choice of trees to grow in a given region. But, on the other hand, there is practical certainty of results. If beech or spruce thrives where the average warmth and moisture of the growing season degrees, then wherever else the same average is found, in the northern hemisphere at least, the forester may plant beech or spruce, whether or not they are already there, with confidence that they will flourish.

The announced purpose of the Genetic Association is to bring about the dissemination of seed or stock of the best specimens, when found, to demonstrate, if possible, the value of heredity in tree growing. The contest for the $100 photographs is announced to end on July 1, 1915, on which date, says the secretary of the Genetic Association in Washington, the offer will terminate.

The White elm on Park street in rear of the Benn residence is a good subject for a photograph. Ed.

They probably will not be ready to serve the Turkey in Europe for Thanksgiving, but the knives are being sharpened for the carving to come later.

Maine ought to have more ardent wells. It costs altogether too much money for a man and team to be hauling water much of the time when wages are so high—Fort Fairfield Review.

But some people consider them an awful bore.

The country has been heard from and the verdict of the people is adverse to the Bryan-Wilson "watchful waiting" Mexican policy and the Wilson-Underwood free trade tariff, which has necessitated a "war tax" in time of peace of $100,000,000.

Turkey has long been one of the plague spots of Europe—a menace to Christianity and civilization. The "unspeakable Turk" having thrown his fez into the ring should now get what is coming to him for the many atrocities he has committed in the past.

Villa will not accept Carranza as president of Mexico, and Carranza will not accept Villa. The latter has been the candidate of President Wilson, and if the rival factions resort to arms the administration will not doubt see that he is provided with the munitions of war.

From all the Maine colleges come reports of increased registration over former years. This is encouraging in many respects. It indicates that Maine is prosperous, and that her young people are striving for an education that will enhance their usefulness as citizens.

An article on the apple situation from the Boston Herald, on another page, suggests that farmers can "apparently make good money by meeting the demands of the neglected market in the nearby Maine cities." It also speaks of the Pacific coast and Northwestern apples gaining purchasers by being neatly wrapped in tissue paper and attractively displayed in small boxes, while many thousands of barrels of high grade apples are left in the orchards only a few miles away. There are no better apples anywhere than those grown in Waldo county, yet many will bear witness that even in an "apple year" it is difficult to get first class fruit. If a bushel is brought in it is picked up quickly, and the supply is seldom equal to the demand.

The Mexican policy of the administration came in for sharp criticism from the Republican campaign speakers in Massachusetts last week. Among other things Senator Lodge said:

"There is no peace either in Mexico or with Mexico. Our navy holds a Mexican city—a city in a foreign country—and may be engaged in fighting at any moment. If this is the peace of which they boast as achieved in Mexico, it is of a queer and unusual kind and with a most precarious hold on existence."

Hon. John W. Weeks discussed the probability of active hostilities between the United States and Mexico within 30 days in a speech denouncing the Mexican policy of President Wilson, in which he said: "I do not know a single thoroughly qualified individual connected with our diplomatic affairs who was or even now is in accord with what has been done in Mexico."

All the other countries recognized Huerta, Senator Weeks said, and he argued that because of the work of Huerta in restoring order quickly after his inauguration among at least seven-eighths of the population he was entitled to recognition. "The first idea the President seems to have had," said Weeks, "was that Huerta was an usurper and a murderer, and therefore should not be recognized. Even assuming that these two statements were true, one of which is not true and the other has never been proven, precedents would yet justify his recognition. He pointed out that King Peter of Serbia, who was responsible for the killing of his predecessor and his queen, was recognized, and that President Wilson himself lost no time in recognizing the usurper, Yuan Shi Kai, as president of China, "although Yuan Shi Kai is known to have killed his hundreds, while Huerta was suspected of responsibility for only a single crime, a charge which has never been proved against him."

The European war has turned the tide of trade in favor of this country. While in August there was an excess of imports over exports of nearly $20,000,000, in September there was an excess of exports amounting to more than $10,000,000, with assurance of continued increase with the unprecedented exports of grain and the large orders received for manufactured goods. Orders for hundreds of thousands of dollars worth of material made in Boston have been placed and more are anticipated. Cotton duck and fur goods form the principal items of several large orders placed with Boston firms for French and English concerns. B. Greenwald & Co. of South Boston received an order for 30,000 long sheepskin, fur-lined ulsters when the English commissioner was in Boston. These coats are 52 inches long and the cheapest and most durable that soldiers could have against the front, providing a warm shelter against snow, wind and rain. About one-third of this consignment has been shipped.

The order will cost nearly $600,000. J. B. Pearson & Co., another Boston firm, has contracted to send to England 60,000 hip and full length fur-lined coats, the output of six factories for about two months. Contracts for 1,500,000 yards of cotton duck have been received by Wellington, Sears & Co. of Boston. In Chicago more than $7,000,000 worth of goods have been bought by French and English buyers. The meat packers are said to have enough European orders to keep them running full time for a year. An Omaha packing company has received an order for 15,000,000 pounds of canned meats, valued at $1,500,000, to go to Europe, and additional orders for dry salt pork amount to more than the supply in sight. The Bethlehem Steel Company is reported to have received an order to furnish the French army with 900 6-inch field guns to be delivered in eight months, the total cost of which will be about $25,000,000, and another order for 1,000,000 3-inch shells. Large orders have been placed for shoes, and the Gardiner, Me., shoe factory is now at work on one which calls for delivery by Jan. 1st, and will require the employment of additional hands. It looks like busy times in the shoe industry, but much depends on the supply and price of leather.

Last year France bought from Germany and Austria goods amounting in value to $360,000,000, the balance of trade being in favor of Germany, to the amount of $40,000,000, and in favor of Austria, to the amount of $11,000,000. Local committees are now being organized with a view to placing this business to the best advantage, and meanwhile there is a boycott in France of German and Austrian products. That much of this trade should, and no doubt will, come to this country is evident. Last year France bought from Germany machinery to the amount of $35,000,000, and from the United States only $11,000,000 in this line. Germany supplied $20,000,000 in cereals, while the United States supplied $7,000,000. In both these lines this country should be able to supply all foreign demands.

"The one uncertain element in the situation," says the New York Herald, "is the attitude of foreign holders of our securities. If there was certainty that they do not want to convert them into cash the Stock Exchange could be reopened tomorrow, and in existing conditions it would seem that they must be inclined to hold their sound American securities as the safest investment in the world."

The Churches.

The Christian Scientists hold services in their hall, 127 Main street, Sunday morning at 11 o'clock, and Wednesday evening at 7:30 o'clock, to which all are welcome.

The services next Sunday at Mason's Mills will be held at 10:30 a. m., followed by the Sunday school, and at Trinity Reformed church at 2:30 p. m., followed by Sunday school.

Next Sunday morning at the Baptist church Rev. W. F. Sturtevant will speak to the Juniors on "The King's Horses" followed by a sermon on "Salt." In the evening the subject of the sermon will be "Love."

At the Methodist church next Sunday morning Rev. Horace B. Sellers will preach on "I Must See Rome," in the evening on "What is it to be a Christian." Sunday at 2:30 p. m. Mr. Sellers will preach at the Brainerd school-house.

The services for the week at the Baptist church will be as follows: prayer meeting this, Thursday, evening; morning service, Sunday at 10:45 a. m.; Sunday School at noon; Christian Endeavor meeting at 6:30 and evening service at 7:30 p. m.

Rev. E. S. Treworgy of Stoneham, Mass., occupied the pulpit of the First Parish (Unitarian) church last Sunday as a candidate. His text was: "He that is slow to anger is better than the mighty; and he that ruleth his spirit than he that taketh a city." Mr. Treworgy will preach here next Sunday.

At a meeting of the county presidents and secretaries held during the State Sunday school convention in Bangor last week it was voted to form a counties S. A. Alliance. The object is to exchange ideas along practical lines of work, fraternal visits in adjoining counties, exchange of programs and general co-operation. At the election of officers Mrs. Annie M. Frost was elected Secretary and Treasurer.

Next Sunday will be Rally Sunday at the Universalist church and it is expected that a large congregation will be present. Special invitations will be sent to all the Universalists in the city and there will be a special sermon and special music for the occasion. The Men's Forum will hold its first meeting of the season on that day to make arrangements for the winter's work. The public is cordially invited to the Sunday morning service. Sunday School at noon.

First Congregational church, Rev. Haraden S. Pearl, pastor. Services as follows: 10:45 a. m., morning worship and sermon, subject: "The Lantern of Diogenes"; 12 noon, Sunday school; the men's class will meet at this time for organization; 6:30 p. m., Christian Endeavor Society annual business meeting, in connection with usual service; 7:30 p. m., popular evening service—familiar hymns—program by quartet from the Belfast Band. Those who do not worship elsewhere are most cordially invited to join with us in these services. Thursday, 7:30 p. m., weekly conference meeting. Friday, 7 p. m., Castle North, K. O. K. A.

RHEUMATISM GOES IF HOOD'S IS USED

The genuine old reliable Hood's Sarsaparilla corrects the acid condition of the blood and builds up the whole system. It drives out rheumatism because it cleanses the blood. It has been successfully used for forty years in many thousands of cases of the world over. There is no better remedy for skin and blood diseases, for loss of appetite, rheumatism, stomach and kidney troubles, general debility and all ills arising from impure, impoverished, devitalized blood. It is unnecessary to suffer. Start treatment at once. Get a bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla from your nearest druggist. You will be pleased with the results.

[Correspondence of The Journal.]

NEW YORK, Nov. 2, 1914. Just as we were congratulating ourselves on our emancipation from choker collars and back fastenings, both are back bidding for favor in such taking forms that before long many will be cultivating wrinkles in their necks, and suppressed profanity from long suffering "Johns."

A CASE IN POINT.

A black frock, smartly endorsed, has a loose waistless bodice of black satin that reaches the hips and fastens in the back with a line of jet buttons.

The high round neck is finished with a band of jet embroidery and above it a frill of tulle flares out. Long tulle sleeves, full below the elbow, finish with a band of velvet at the wrist and frills of tulle over the hands. A sash about the hips has two ends held at the back under big jet ornaments. The skirt has a satin foundation, straight and narrow, and a long full tulle tunic with three bands of velvet ribbon widely spaced.

SILVER LACE AND VELVET.

A one piece frock of green panne velvet fastens at the back. The full black net tunic is bordered with a band of bead embroidery in jet and silver. The lines of the bodice suggest the outlines of a coat of mail. Silver cords reach from the under arm seam to the back of the waist. The neck is finished with a little rolling collar, as high in the back as in the front of silver lace.

STREET COSTUMES.

One sees more street gowns than suits worn by the fashionable set here. The long sleeveless chemise tunic, in one piece from neck to hem, worn over a contrasting under-dress, usually of satin or velvet, and sleeves matching the skirt, is developed with many smart variations that adapt it to the individual. Braided and beaded sashes placed at the hip line are tied at the center front or back. Patches of the embroidered fabric simulate vests, half belts, or pockets, and braid sashes or trimmings, especially in the form of bindings and borders, are smartly employed for these coat dresses. Gabardine and broadcloth, serge and velvet, are the favorite materials for the tunic. Satin, striped cloths and velvets are usually employed for the matching sleeve and under dress.

McCall Design

FUR TRIMMINGS AND ACCESSORIES.

Every sort of suit or dress is smartened with touches of fur in its trimming, or worn with some of the new fur sets that adorn any costume.

Neck pieces come in many novel forms and in new combinations of fur and velvet. From a short little collar that are hardly more than a throat strap to elaborate arrangements of handsome skins that form in themselves a warm and becoming protection, and admirably supplement the needed warmth of the coat dress or medium weight suit.

Fringes of monkey fur accentuate the lines of tunics and evening coats. A coat of gold brocade at C. C. Shays & Co., fit for an empress, was bandied and edged with the glossy fringes of Abyssinian monkey fur. Cut in loose circular form, but with sleeves, this garment showed in soft iridescence a dainty mélange of rainbow tints against its shimmering background. I notice that this is reproduced as accurately as possible in black and white, in the new style book.

In the more practical sets that everyone likes to wear, Pointed Fox and Chinchilla Squirrel are most attractively shown this season. The latter duplicates the perfect silver gray of the best Chinchilla, at a small fraction of the cost, and gives wear that far exceeds anything possible from its expensive rival.

Pointed fox in the best grades is also deceptively elegant in appearance, the white points relieving the dark fur in a most becoming fashion. Kolinsky dyed in sable tints is a favorite fur, both for sets combined with panne velvet, and for trimmings.

FOOTWEAR.

White topped black foxed shoes are the top of the mode for dress wear, but are a bit too spectacular to suit exclusive dressers for street use, but for indoor wear the piedbald combination is a reigning favorite. All sorts of changes are rung on this combination in slippers, and buckles of cut jet, and jet with pearls, and with rhinestones, are worn on both black and white footwear.

For the woman who studies economy, bronze slippers with matching hose are a satisfactory choice, since these are reckoned smart, yet combine well with almost any dress coloring. A new square toed French boot with Vienna heel has been lately introduced by an American maker, and is finding a number of adherents.

NEW YORK HERALD SUNDAY, NOV. 8.

The Magazine Section of the Sunday New York Herald for November 8 will be replete with features of pertinent and timely war interest. Field Marshal Lord Kitchener, "a man who has never known defeat, a man who will pull things through, a man who is thorough," is the subject of a full page article by Alexander Baird. He points out that the career of Great Britain's Minister of War has proved him to be relentless and remorseless in warfare, but in other circumstances the possessor of the tenderness of hearts. That he is popular is attested by the fashion of calling him "K. of K." This feature will be illustrated with a magnificent portrait by Naderney.

The present revolt in the Union of South Africa brings to mind the siege of Ladysmith, which was almost brought to a success by the farmers of the veldt. This siege and the investment, and the fall of Fort Arthur will be described by Henry M. Sneyd. They are now of peculiar interest, as it was in the Boer War that the British army was trained in open order fighting, and the conflict with the Japanese put the Russian army in fighting trim.

Richard C. Conover will contribute an article on "Diplomacy and Famous Diplomats." He points out that a crisis and a diplomatist usually make their appearance at the same time, but it is a significant fact that the diplomatist usually precedes the crisis. As in the present great conflict diplomatists are silent partners who may have a share in the task of arranging the terms of peace, Mr. Conover's article is certain to be the subject of wide interest.

The front cover of the Magazine Section will be a splendid picture by the noted Naderney, redrawn from Beaupre's famous painting, "At Close Quarters," and three pictures, all by De Neuville, each depicting a tense, dramatic incident in warfare, are grouped on the War in Art page.

SEARSMONT.

Mr. and Mrs. Irving Hills of Winthrop called on relatives and friends recently. Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Salisbury have taken rooms in Mrs. M. J. Poor's house in the village. Mrs. Lucy Bean and Mrs. Leon Brown entertained the Ladies' Aid Oct. 28th. A pleasant time was enjoyed by all and a large amount of work was accomplished. Mrs. Abbie Ordway attended the teacher's convention in Portland. Dr. and Mrs. C. R. Simmons are receiving congratulations on the birth of a son. The following officers were installed in Quantabook Masonic Lodge Tuesday evening, Oct. 20th: Fred E. Miller, W. M.; C. R. Simmons, S. W.; F. W. Bryant, J. W.; L. H. Thomas, Treasurer; A. L. Maddocks, Secretary; A. P. French, S. D.; J. W. Levenseller, J. D.; M. A. Rolerson, Chaplain; U. N. Dyer, Marshal; J. G. Peckard, S. S.; G. W. Butler, J. S.; E. S. Wing, Tyler.

SWANVILLE.

A. Eugene Nickerson of Portland is the guest of his father, Hon. A. E. Nickerson, for a few days. Miss Grace Gilkey, teacher in district No. 9, was a week-end guest of Mrs. W. E. Damm. A. E. Cunningham has made a business trip through Knox, Belmont and Morrill. Miss Ruby Gray was home from Pittsfield a few days last week. She returned to school Monday. Mrs. C. R. Nickerson and Mrs. E. A. Robertson attended the Sunday school convention in Bangor last week. E. L. Cunningham and family went to Bangor Monday, where he has employment on Mr. Samuel Strickland's farm. Emory Cunningham accompanied by a friend, Mr. Richards, students at Bucksport Seminary, was at home a few days last week. Pembroke Towner has moved his family into Walter Nickerson's house. Will the party who borrowed the staging plank at the church kindly return the same, as the owners would like to have them. Miss Mary Levenseller of Waldo spent last week with her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Chase, and her father and mother and uncle Charles Levenseller came for her Sunday. The entertainment of the L. A. S. last Saturday evening was a success, socially and financially. Fred York got the quilt. Miss Doris Nickerson a student at Castine, spent the week-end at home. Henry O. Nickerson died at his home Wednesday evening, Oct. 28th. Obituary later.

LIBERTY.

Word has been received here from the Post-office Department at Washington, D. C., of the appointment of Mr. Maurice Gray as postmaster to succeed G. H. Cargill, who sent in his resignation last April. Mr. Cargill has held the office nearly seventeen years and has been a very faithful and obliging official. He retires with the respect and best wishes of all his patrons. Mr. Gray, who has been clerk in the office for the past year, is well qualified for the position and by his kind, gentlemanly manner to all has made many friends who congratulate him upon his appointment. An auto party, in which were Dr. Ellis, Mr. Harry Wyman and Clyde Wilkins, principal of Liberty High school, went to Waterville Saturday to see the ball game between the University of Maine team and Colby College team. L. F. Hurd, who has charge of the creamery here, in company with Lewis Marden of Belfast made an auto trip last week through some of the towns in adjoining towns as to their sanitary condition. Mr. Hurd has made a reputation for himself as a model creamery man, having taken the prize every month but one during the past year for cleanliness. Mr. Irvin W. Moody, Mrs. Walter Ordway and Mrs. Ida McLain, accompanied by superintendent of schools P. L. Boynton, went to Portland last week to attend the teachers' convention. They report a very instructive and enjoyable session. Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Marden and Mrs. Cunningham of Belfast were auto visitors in town one day last week.

CENTER MOUNTAIN.

The schools in town began Monday. Teachers have been assigned as follows by Superintendent J. J. Clement: Center, Mrs. Addie Hall of Searsmont; White's Corner, Mrs. Olive Stewart, McFarland's Corner, Miss Gracia C. Luce; Kingdom, Miss Marion Atkinson of Searsmont; Carter, Miss Annie Paul of Morrill; Vose, Mrs. Perley Cross; Haldale, Miss Addie Palmer; Goosepecker Ridge, Miss Roberta Wiggins. The drought is making much extra work for many people, John L. Boynton had hauled, up to Sunday, 2,200 gallons of water for household purposes and his stock. Some of it he got one quarter of a mile from home, and some he had to go a mile to get. Mr. and Mrs. M. Carter of Belfast passed the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. P. C. Allen Mr. and Mrs. Maurice A. Brann returned to Belfast with them, enroute to Castine. C. C. Swazey Jr., of Newburyport, Mass., is at Mrs. H. E. Ramsay's. Mrs. Abbie Watts of Waterville is the guest of her sister, Miss Etta Thompson. Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Clement were in Augusta Thursday. C. J. H. Luce is in Livermore Falls packing apples. Mrs. Ethel Jordan of Augusta is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. F. Arey. Miss Gracia C. Luce attended the teacher's convention in Portland last week. We claim that Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Tasker are the smartest middle-aged couple in town. Mr. Tasker is 33, his wife 72, and they have gathered 75 barrels of choice winter apples, unsold. A quiet home wedding took place at Mr. Leonard Carter's Sunday Nov. 1st, at 2:30 p. m., when his daughter Viola, was married to Mr. Maurice A. Brann of East Jefferson. A number of relatives were present to witness the ceremony, which was performed by Dr. A. D. Ramsay, J. P. Later the couple left for Belfast with Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Carter and will take a short journey before going to Cushing, where they will both teach this winter. Last Saturday T. S. Eskine took a load of household goods to East Jefferson for Mrs. Calista Sprowl. Mrs. Sprowl has taken a house to be near her daughter for the winter. Miss Nancie Sprowl, who teaches there, will board with her; also Dr. A. D. Ramsay, whose health has not been good since his severe illness last spring. His friends are very sorry to have the doctor leave town, but hope the charge and rest will be so beneficial that he will be able to resume his practice here after a few months. We hope to see Mrs. Sprowl back to the farm another summer. Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Clement and Frank Currier went to Waterville and Augusta last Thursday. Mr. and Mrs. Willis Crosby, son and daughter of Vassalboro and Mrs. Rose Newhall of Dedham, Mass., visited Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Clement last week. T. C. Robbins, who has been with T. S. Eskine the past six months, has gone to Albany, N. Y., for the winter. George Palmer of Dixmont was in town last week and bought four cows of W. P. Jones, one of Merrill Gordon and one of John Boynton. Fred Allen is building a stable from lumber bought of Elmer Palmer. Newell Jones, who is visiting his son, West P. Jones, returned Thursday from a visit with his brother, S. B. Jones, and other relatives in Palermo. Mrs. Addie White and Mrs. Hattie Clough spent Sunday with their cousin Cora A. Goodwin.

SECRET SOCIETIES.

The members of Waldo Lodge, K. of P., of Burnham are planning to build a hall. The site has been selected and work on the new building is expected to begin in the near future.

At the meeting of Primrose Chapter, O. E. S., tomorrow, Friday, evening will occur the official inspection by Mrs. Adelaide Marriner Meservy, of Waterville, Grand Matron of the Grand Chapter, O. E. S., of Maine. Beach Chapter of Lincolnville and Seaside of Castine will be guests. A reception will be tendered the Grand Matron at 6 o'clock, the banquet will be served at 6:30, and the regular meeting begin at 7:30.

Antioch Chapter, No. 163, Unity, was inspected Thursday evening, Oct. 28th, by District Deputy Grand Matron Mrs. Jessie Pattee of Belfast. A large number of members were present. A number of prominent members from Josiah H. Drummond Chapter of Thornville were in attendance. After the business meeting refreshments were served and a social hour was enjoyed by all.

Tarrantine Tribe of Red Men last Monday evening gave a banquet and reception to Past Sachem Henry B. Wescott, with a very large attendance of members. Following the regular meeting the banquet was served, after which Mr. Wescott was presented by the members of the Tribe with a beautifully gold embroidered Past Sachem's sash in recognition of his work in the interests of Redmen. The presentation was made by District Deputy Great Sachem E. S. Perkins, and Mr. Wescott, although taken by surprise, responded feelingly. At the regular meeting of the Tribe next Monday evening there will be work in the Warrior's degree. The Tribe recently bought a fine large parade flag for street work.

Frothingham.

UNION SAM BUYS LAND IN SEASIDE. There are two transfers of real estate reported this week which might be of interest if their real significance could be known—the Bangor Investment Co. and the Northern Maine Land Co., to the United States of America, land in Seaside. The former is for two small parcels of land near the railroad track and the other conveys the right of way to this land. The deeds cover the right of cutting trees and erecting electric light poles on the land.

At a meeting of the Woman's Hospital Aid, held Nov. 2d, a unanimous vote of thanks was given Thomas H. Marshall Post, G. A. R., for the use of Memorial hall, Oct. 27th, and to all those who in any way aided in making the sale and supper on that date a success.

The Travellers Club will meet with Mrs. Amos Clement Tuesday, Nov. 10th. Program: Reading, "The Pilgrim in Devon," by Miss Mabel R. Matthews; paper, "English Customs," Mrs. Walter C. Shaw; reading, "The Land of Promise," Mrs. George E. Brackett.

C. book, "Through England with Tennyson"; recitation, "The Charge of the Light Brigade"; reading, "The Palace of Art"; paper, "Tennyson as a Historian"; reading, selections from Tennyson's "Harold."

At the meeting of Thomas H. Marshall Circle last Tuesday afternoon 35 members were present. A memorial service for Mrs. Anne Smart was conducted and Mrs. Julia McKee, Mrs. Mary Russ and Mrs. Mary Pendleton were appointed a committee on resolutions on her death. It was voted to give $10 to the Home for Aged Women, also to send a written vote of thanks to the Sons of Veterans for the entertainment and banquet last Monday night. Next Tuesday there will be an entertainment, conducted by the patriotic instructor, on anything of interest and entertainment to the Order.

THE BENEFIT SUPPER. The public supper held in Memorial hall Tuesday evening as a benefit to the Home for Aged Women was a financial success, netting about $133.21. The G. A. R. gave the free use of the hall, Carle & Jones the dishes, W. E. Hamilton the flowers for the tables, which were nearly all sold, and Charles R. Coombs provided celery from his own garden for all the tables. Those unable to attend or cook gave liberally of money from $5 to 15 cents. The larger gifts included $5 each from Mrs. Fred Timm, Mrs. Asa A. Howes, Mr. Charles F. Swift, and $3 from Mr. O. E. Frost. The only expenses were for trucking and rolls. The menu included meals of all kinds, escalloped clams, salads of every variety, baked beans, hot rolls, loaf bread, pickles, celery, assorted cake, fancy and cream pies. The Ladies' Club, Mrs. A. C. Hopkins, Mrs. Louise B. Brooks, Misses Edith M. Southworth and Sue M. Partridge, were assisted by Mrs. J. L. Sleeper, Mrs. S. G. Swift, Mrs. C. E. Frost, Mrs. I. L. Perry, Mrs. J. G. Aborn, Mrs. Wm. Sellers, Mrs. Ralph D. Southworth, Miss Amy L. Wilson, Miss Marian M. Perry, Miss Annette Holt, Mrs. G. W. Howard.

A BIRTHDAY SURPRISE PARTY. Mrs. H. E. McDonald entertained last Monday at her home on Church street in observance of the birthday of Mrs. Thomas W. Lohrop, to whom the party was a pleasant surprise. When lunch was served the place cards read: "A complete surprise and a grand good time to celebrate the golden years of Mrs. Helen Lohrop." The dining room was darkened at midday and lighted by candelabra and the five candles on the birthday cake at the place of Mrs. Lohrop. A beautiful bunch of chrysanthemums graced the table and later was presented to Mrs. Lohrop by the hostess. The menu included chicken salad, Parker House rolls, salted nuts, coffee, grape jelly, frozen pudding, angel and birthday cake. After lunch vocal and instrumental music was rendered by Mrs. C. W. Wescott and Mrs. Lohrop. Auction was played during the afternoon, and as a souvenir of the occasion the club presented Mrs. Lohrop with a beautiful Russia leather wrist bag. Miss Belle Keating assisted Mrs. McDonald in serving. Mrs. Lohrop said it was "the happiest birthday of her life." The guests were members of the Wednesday Club and its substitutes, with Mrs. Ira M. Cobe as the guest of honor: Mrs. Austin W. Keating, Mrs. Joseph Tyler, Mrs. George R. Doak, Mrs. H. H. Carter and Mrs. Marion E. Brown. Miss E. Maude Barker was unable to attend and sent a beautiful bunch of pink chrysanthemums with a note of regrets and congratulations to Mrs. McDonald and Mrs. Lohrop. The substitutes were Mrs. George E. Keating, Mrs. Wm. M. Randall, Mrs. C. W. Wescott, Mrs. J. C. Durham, Mrs. O. S. Vickery.

Miss Clara Frost of St. Albans, who has been assisting in the home of her brother, E. I. Frost, for several weeks, returned home Saturday.

The W. C. T. U. will meet tomorrow, Friday, at 2:30 p. m., with Mrs. Littlefield Union street. Members are asked to bring some temperance clippings.

The Osceola sewing club will meet with Mrs. Jesse Webber Friday afternoon, Nov. 6th. A picnic supper will be served at 6 o'clock, to which the members of the council and their families are invited.

Mrs. V. L. Hall entertained the Once-in-a-while Club Wednesday, October 28th, at her home on Congress street. Supper was served at 6 o'clock, following a pleasant afternoon devoted to needle work.

E. P. Sullivan, who has served as station agent at Burnham for many years, has been granted a leave of absence for several weeks and plans to visit in the West. His place will be supplied by Harry Patten, who with Mrs. Patten and two children will occupy a portion of the home of F. P. Shaw.

A still alarm about 8 p. m., Monday was for a chimney fire at the Charles Bradbury house on Northport avenue. A few firemen who responded promptly soon had the fire under control, but the house was filled with smoke and fine soot, causing several hundreds of dollars damage in draperies, etc. Two of the rooms will have to be entirely re-decorated and refurnished, and other rooms are damaged by smoke.

THE ORDORNE DANCING CLASSES. Seventeen children and thirty-seven adults were present last Thursday at Memorial hall for instruction in the new dances by Mrs. Rosanna Ordorne. The children came in the afternoon, accompanied by their mothers, and the adults in the evening, when lessons were given on the hesitation waltz, the two step and the fox trot, the latter one of the newest dances. This was the first of a series of six lessons to be given each Thursday afternoon and evening in Memorial hall.

THE ENTERTAINMENT COURSE. The first entertainment in the course was given Oct. 28th in the Baptist church by the Maurer Sisters Orchestra and was successful in every particular. The orchestral work was fine, and the cornet, flute, violin, cello and whistling solos showed not only remarkable versatility but musical talent of a high order. The humorous readings were an attractive feature, and the audience specially enjoyed the rendering of "Widow Doodles Lament" and James Whitcomb Riley's "Do They Miss Me at Home?" with orchestral accompaniment. There was a large attendance and many encores.

Mrs. Irving T. Dinsmore entertained the members of the Monday Auction club and others at a three table auction party at her home on Congress street Oct. 28th. Supper was served at 6 o'clock, Miss Mildred Slater assisting the hostess. The place cards and not baskets were the hand work of the hostess and very dainty and artistic. The menu was chicken salad, hot biscuits, olives, ices, cake and coffee, and the decorations were in autumn foliage and flowers. Mrs. William M. Randall won the first prize, a bunch of roses and ferns, and Mrs. A. W. Keating the second, a dainty pin cushion. Others present were Mrs. Charles Bradbury, Mrs. Wilmer J. Dorman, Mrs. E. A. Wadsworth, Mrs. George I. Keating, Mrs. S. A. Parker, Mrs. Clement W. Wescott, Mrs. Marion E. Brown, Mrs. Elton B. Gichrest, Mrs. Clyde B. Holmes and Miss Annie L. Barr.

SEASIDE'S HALLOWE'EN FESTIVAL. Seaside Grange hall was a veritable witch's bower at the annual Halloween supper and dance last Thursday evening and the decorating committee, Misses Marian Hayes and Susie Bralley and Carl Noyes and Irving Wade, received many well merited compliments for their work. The color scheme was yellow and black, and on each side of the stage were evergreen trees and red berries and in the rear a grove of icicles, its frigid air relieved by a huge fireplace with its bright red blaze. The candy bowl in charge of Mrs. E. B. Lunt and Miss Lucy A. Cochran, did a thriving business. Mrs. Nellie Grotton, the Gypsy fortune teller, in her Halloween costume of the past and revealed the future of many who placed the coin in her palm, and Elijah Ritchie and his grab bag furnished endless fun as long as his mysterious wares held out. The guess cake, a thing of beauty and goodness, was won by Mrs. Lottie Brailey Sprague. William Lunt worked industriously to sell a live rooster by ticket. The lucky number was 268, but its holder failed to show up and the rooster returned home was served to await its new owner. Supper was served at 6 p. m. and the tables were gay with special Halloween decorations and there was an abundance of tempting food. Dancing began at 8 o'clock, with music by McKee's orchestra. The 11 o'clock supper was also abundant and was well patronized. Everybody had a good word for Seaside's festival.

The Woman's Alliance of the First Parish (Unitarian) will meet at the home of Mrs. Albert M. Carter and Miss Charlotte W. Colburn, Church street, this Thursday, afternoon at three o'clock. As announced last week "Some Alliance Opportunities," a paper written by Mrs. Lucy Bartlett Walsh for the New England Association Alliance, will be read by Miss Frances Chase, and Miss Melvina V. Parker will relate her personal experiences as "A Refugee in Europe." An urgent invitation is extended to all the women of the parish who are not connected with this organization to become Alliance members.

Messrs T. Frank Parker, Robert F. Duntion, Charles P. Hazeltine and Amos Clement returned last week from hunting trips in Northern Maine. Mr. Clement of Seal Harbor, and each got a deer. Mr. Parker brought home a deer. Thursday Col. H. E. McDonald and Elton B. Gilchrist left on a hunting trip, going to Bangor, where they were to meet friends, for Northern Maine. Jerry E. Hayes of this city, Benson Gilkey, Loranus F. and Joseph A. Pendleton of Islesboro left Monday for a hunting trip in the vicinity of Patten. Messrs. McDonald and Gilchrist returned Monday, bringing some partridges, but did not get a deer. Chester Worthing and Austin Jewett returned Monday night from a hunting trip in the vicinity of Northeast Carry, Mr. Worthing having a fine doe, and Mr. Jewett a buck. Tuesday morning Mr. and Mrs. Robert Gross returned from a hunting trip near Greenville Junction, each with two does.

THE WOMAN'S CLUB. The November meeting of the Woman's Club was held Monday afternoon, Mrs. Amos Clement presiding. Eighteen members were present and five new members were voted in: Mrs. Mary S. Harriman, Mrs. D. P. Palmer, Mrs. A. W. Keating, Misses Charlotte W. Colburn and Maude M. Milliken. It was voted to have a public food sale, Saturday, Nov. 14th, as a contribution to the deficit at the Home for Aged Women. Mrs. Charles M. Craig and Mrs. Ben Hazeltine will have charge of the sale and will be pleased to have contributions sent to the club room at the time of the sale. Tea will be served at the room during the afternoon. The club hopes in the near future to maintain a district nurse and Miss Sanderson of the Waldo County hospital, by invitation, read a paper on the duties, needs, etc., of a district nurse. A vote of thanks was extended Miss Sanderson for her interesting paper. An informal discussion and questions followed. At the December meeting Mrs. Carl H. Stevens will read a paper written by Miss Nelson of Portland on "A Day's Experience of a District Nurse." Mrs. Clement told of the experiences of the Bangor club in the matter of district nursing.

Henry Davis has undergone a very successful operation by Dr. Luther S. Mason at the Eastern Maine General hospital in Bangor and is rapidly recovering. He is expected home in a week.

POOR'S MILLS. Mr. and Mrs. Willis Hamilton will speak at the hall next Sunday afternoon at 3 p. m. The ladies' sewing circle will meet with Mrs. Ella Brown this week. Mr. and Mrs. Howard Conley and two children of Boston are guests of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Wentworth. Mrs. Adelaide Howe of New York will return home this week after spending the summer with her sister, Mrs. J. A. Harbison. Mr. and Mrs. M. O. Wilson and Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Sheldon motored to Rockland Monday. Orrin L. Wentworth was over from Islesboro Monday on business, returning Tuesday. Mrs. O. A. Wade has gone to Hartford, Ct. to join her husband, Capt. Wade, on his barge. Mrs. Nettie Kimball went to Newark, N. J., with her sister last week. Mrs. Frank L. Field entertained her Sunday school class last Saturday afternoon. Henry Davis has bought and moved into the house formerly owned by the late Jordan Wentworth.

A HALLOWE'EN PARTY. Donald Spear entertained at a Halloween party last Saturday evening in honor of Miss Margaret Thistle of Rockland, who is a guest of Miss Geneva Stephenson. The house was very elaborately decorated with evergreen, cut flowers, bunting and flags, and ice cream and cake were served. Games were enjoyed and dancing was kept up until a late hour, with music by Miss Edna Curtis, piano, and Frank R. Waterman and Dean Knowlton, violins. Those present were the guest of honor, Miss Thistle, Misses Geneva Stephenson, Katherine Kirtledge, Lillian Dexter, Laura Morris, Katherine Newcomb, Helen Ellis, Eleanor Bruce, Ruth Wiley, Edna Curtis, Grace Mitchell, Natalie Pottle, Frank Waterman, Sturgis Dexter, William Pendleton, Archie Robinson, Wilson Clement, Theodore Bramhall, Howard Newcomb, Donald Wadlin, Ben Parker, Roy Ellingwood, Linwood Long, Dean Knowlton. Several flash light pictures were taken as souvenirs of this jolly Halloween night.

S. V. BANQUET AND INSPECTION. Monday evening, Nov. 2nd, A. E. Clark Camp, Sons of Veterans, entertained State officers and other guests, and the occasion was one long to be remembered by all present. A banquet was served at 6 o'clock, when 134 covers were laid. Rev. Horace B. Sellers offering the blessing. The guests of honor were Dr. William O. Cobb of Gardiner, Division Commander of Maine; Olin P. Ayer of Auburn, Senior Vice Division Commander; Frank L. Merrick of Waterville, Junior Vice Division Commander; and about twenty members of Thomas H. Marshall Post, also members of The Circle, Auxiliary and of Emma White Barker Tent, Daughters of Veterans were present and a number of prominent citizens were invited guests. After the banquet a smoke talk was enjoyed. Later the Sons held a private session for special work, including the conferring of the third degree, which is practically original with A. E. Clark camp and which the State officers came especially to inspect. They complimented the work very highly and said they had never been so royally entertained as on this occasion. Dr. Cobb stands for the educational and moral uplift of the State Camps and recognized that A. E. Clark Camp was striving for these principles. The State officers were entertained while here at the Windsor Hotel.

A SURPRISE HALLOWE'EN PARTY. Miss Katherine Newcomb gave a unique and most delightful Halloween party last Friday night at her home, 67 Belmont avenue, in celebration of the birthday of her brother Howard. It was a surprise, a genuine one. The guests arrived about 7:30 and were greeted at the door by a weird witch. At top of the stairs a ghost met them and solemnly pointed to the coat room. In a like manner they were directed downstairs and witches and ghosts were met at unexpected turns. The house was lighted with candles in jack o' lanterns, and decorated with evergreen bough and red berries. After games and music a real Halloween supper was served, including pumpkin pie and cider, pop-corn, apples, and many other good things. Those who had their fortunes told by the witch, who proved to be Mrs. Herbert L. Seekins, were delighted with the good things predicted. In her own inimitable manner she predicted all manner of droll things, adding much to the evening's enjoyment. Those present were Miss Margaret Thistle of Rockland, and the following young ladies, members of a house party at Fair View cottage: Misses Geneva Stephenson, Katherine D. Kirtledge, Grace Mitchell, Natalie Pottle, Lillian Dexter, Edna Curtis; Miss Laura Morris. Miss Essie Piper, Donald Spear, Sturgis Dexter, Roy Ellingwood, William Pendleton, Theodore Bramhall, J. Franklin Waterman, Jr., Claude Jipson and Albert Miller.

An enthusiastic meeting of the committee from the Board of Trade having in hand the municipal Christmas tree was held in Memorial Hall last Tuesday evening with a good attendance. The meeting organized with Morris L. Slugg as president, Rev. A. A. Blair as secretary and Clement W. Wescott as treasurer. The various committees will be announced later by Mr. Slugg. It is planned to hold meetings at 4 p. m. every Thursday at the office of the Superintendent of Schools. The plans will be to hold a week of cheer, to be opened with the lighting of the Christmas tree in post-office square Christmas eve, and the tree will be continued until New Year's. A lighting of the tree will be the signal for a musical program which will be given in the square and the entire program will be one of special note and is intended to create a greater interest in Yuletide.

ADVERTISED LETTERS. The following letter remained uncalled for in the Belfast postoffice for the week ending Nov. 3d: Ladies—Mrs. Marion M. Rich, (2 letters), Frances Young, Gentlemen—Wm. A. Blackford, Mr. C. H. Wright, Capt. Terry, Dennis P. Towle, Mr. H. P. Rich, C. E. Wilson.

A number of auto parties went to Belmont last Thursday night to attend the opening ball in Mariner hall, and more than 165 couples took part in the dancing. The hall was built on the Alexander place, the old home of Mrs. Mariner, and the house is used in connection with the hall, having a large reception room and dining hall. Supper was served at 11 o'clock and every one pronounced this dedicatory ball a complete success. Dances will be held there the year around.

the Sargent block on Main street over A. E. Colson's store. A new piano has been rented of E. S. Fletcher of Belfast. The room is lighted by electricity and has water.

The centennial celebration at Fort Point, July 28, 1889, including the oration by Rev. Stephen Thurston of this town, which was published on page 3 of The Journal last week, was read with interest by quite a number now living in town who attended the celebration.

The writer remembers the Belfast Light Artillery, Capt. Cunningham, returning from the celebration in the afternoon on their way to Belfast halted on Main street between the residence of Gen. P. S. Nickerson and the Baptist church, firing a salute which shattered the glass in both buildings. Capt. John Woodman, in the sch Sporty, ran an excursion from the steamboat wharf to Fort Point with a large party on board and all small sailboats in port were heading for Fort Point during that eventful day.

CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH NOTES. The activities of the Church have been resumed after the usual vacation period, the pastor, Rev. Charles H. McElhinney, having returned after a few weeks' needed rest. Two announcements were made for the coming week. On Friday evening in the upper Conference Room, there will be a "Poverty Sociable" from 7:30 to 10. The proceeds will be devoted to the Sunday School Library fund. No new books have been purchased for several years. Every effort is being made to create a greater interest among all ages in the Sunday school. A well equipped library will increase the attendance. The admission to the sociable will be ten cents. Come prepared to enter into the fun of the evening. Rags and ill fitting garments are the desired costume. All are urged to leave their "good clothes" at home. The two "poorest" persons present, one under and one over twelve years in age will be suitably rewarded by a selected committee. Games will be played and wits tested. Bring pencils. Refreshments served. The annual meeting of the Ladies Guild will be held in the Conference Room, Saturday afternoon at two. Officers will be chosen to preside during the coming year.

The News of Brooks.

Mr. Dow will begin some special sales next week from his dry and fancy goods store.

W. D. Bennett has moved from the Jesse C. Forbes place in West Brooks to the village.

Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Elliott have been here and opened their village residence for a few weeks.

Miss Nellie Littlefield of Monroe has been visiting her aunt, Miss Flora Tasker, a school teacher in this village.

Potatoes are selling for 35 cents per bushel and they are coming in slowly. It brings little enthusiasm or cash to the farmer.

Mr. and Mrs. Erving Johnson from Massachusetts have been spending a few weeks at the old homestead on the Long Hill.

Mrs. Fannie Twombly has been, and still is, very dangerously ill with rheumatic fever. Her daughter Therese is caring for her.

Dan Plummer of Montville has moved to this village with his family and will occupy the residence of the late Charles E. Lane.

M. J. Dow has been out to his farm and personally hand-picked some forty barrels of apples, but at present prices the most he will get out of it will be the satisfaction of gathering his own fruit.

In a recent trip to Swanville we called upon Mrs. Nickerson, formerly known in Brooks as Susie Jeffords, and her old friends here will be glad to know that she has a nice home and is very comfortably situated, with a family of grown-up children.

We were surprised the other morning to see our fine neighbor, Wm. H. Rolfe, running across the corner with his gray locks streaming in the wind—that is, they would have streamed if they had been long enough—and hurriedly came back from the residence of Ed Cox with a gun in his hand. By this time we were not only surprised, we were excited. Visions of tragedy as the outcome of his impetuous haste flashed hurriedly before our versatile mental vision, and the report of the musket a moment later seemed to portend something serious to investigate. Therefore, with visions of a column of exciting news for The Journal, we "also ran," and there was our friend Mr. Rolfe holding his smoking musket while not a rod from the window of his house lay a fluttering partridge.

The patrons had a big time in the hall of Harvest Home Grange last Monday evening, in the guise of an agricultural fair. About one hundred people were present and the display was very creditable, considering the small locality it was drawn from. Conspicuous among the farmers were Mrs. Kate Lane and Mrs. Hattie Jenkins, two buxom widows, who have run a semi-partnership in the garden truck business, doing much of the work themselves in the early summer mornings before many of the farmers were in the field. And they had garden products for themselves and their friends in the proper season, in profusion and of fine quality. Their display on this occasion was a fine showing of what women can do when they start out to do it. Lewis Leonard had a very instructive display of alfalfa, with specimens from the roots to the seeds. In fact, there were many interesting exhibits which we have not time or space to enumerate. The exhibits by the ladies in fancy work were also worthy of attention.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Halls Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only Constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

NORTH ISLESBORO. Mrs. Sherman G. Swift and son and Dorothy Drinkwater of Belfast were week-end guests of Capt. and Mrs. Leighton Combs. Mr. Curtis Thomas left Nov. 2d for Portland, where he has employment. Mrs. Rosina Adams returned Oct. 30th from Bangor, where she was the guest of relatives. Mr. William Norton, who spent the summer in town, has returned to his home in Revere, Mass. Mrs. E. S. Preble and Miss Lena Rose attended the Sunday school convention in Bangor last week. Two very successful Halloween socials (one Friday and one Saturday evening) were held in the Parker and Ryder schoolhouses.

SICK PEOPLE. The sick and ailing, find relief, by sending for a free copy of Dr. Humphreys' Manual of all diseases, and their treatment with Humphreys' Remedies, for men, women and children, from sprue to gout, from colic to bladder troubles, from puberty to change of life. This valuable Medical Book sent prepaid on request, address: Humphreys' Homeopathic Medical Co., 155 William Street, New York.

Economy in Baking

In these times of great advance in prices of many foods it is important to Housekeepers to know that the old reliable Royal Baking Powder, made from pure cream of tartar and soda, is sold at the old prices.

STOCKTON SPRINGS.

November opened with a clear, cold Sunday followed by a mild Monday.

Mrs. W. P. Creamer, the guest of Miss Mabel F. Simmons, Stockton street, for a week, left Friday's early train for her Boston home.

Mrs. Henry D. Shute arrived Thursday from Rockland for a visit of indefinite length with her mother, Mrs. Albert C. Colcord, East Main street. Welcome home, Evelyn!

Elder Bowman Russell, wife and son, of Union were the guests Friday of Mr. and Mrs. L. S. Tietmeyer, Sylvan street, leaving in the afternoon by automobile for home.

Mrs. J. A. Flanders, because of an ill-turn in Bangor, did not reach home until Thursday, Oct. 29th. We are glad to see her upon the streets, hoping that her recovery is complete.

The Auxiliary Aid of the Universalist parish was entertained Tuesday afternoon by Mrs. Edgar M. Colcord, Mill street, for the customary fancy-work done by the young lady members.

Miss Ruth Merrithew, Church street, entertained last Thursday Misses Nellie Blanchard and Amelia Grant of Sandyport, who attended the Halloween party in Litchfield hall with her in the evening.

Irving H. Merrithew, only son of Mr. and Mrs. Simon B. Merrithew, Church street, left Monday for Bangor to enter the Doe Business College for a course of study. Stockton sends her best wishes to her young citizen!

The Ladies' Aid Society of the Universalist parish will meet this Thursday, afternoon with Mrs. Ralph Morse, West Main street, for sewing. The cordial hosts hope for a goodly representation of the membership.

Mrs. Charles Heath of Sandyport and her little son Herbert came Friday afternoon to visit her sister, Mrs. Herbert Mixer, Sylvan street, her daughter Gladys joining her Saturday evening to spend Sunday. They returned home Sunday night.

The Harvest Supper under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid Society of the Universalist church last Thursday proved numerically, socially and financially a grand success. After the payment of small bills $15.00 were given to the treasurer, Mrs. Annie K. Harriman. Well done, all around!

Dr. and Mrs. G. A. Stevens, Church street, are preparing to leave soon to spend the winter at their orange grove in Georgetown, Florida, where they have two attractive homes. Charming for them, but his numerous patrons are wondering how Stockton people can get through cold weather without the doctor's services. However, they realize his need of relaxation and change from his arduous cares.

Tuesday, Oct. 27th, brought us a snow storm (our first appearance of solid whiteness) followed by an afternoon of sunshine with a falling temperature and a very cold night. Wednesday was beautiful and cold, but moderated gradually. Saturday closed the week and month with bright sunshine and a searching northwest wind. Can November be as fine a month as its predecessor has been in Maine?

Mrs. H. Everett Hichborn, who is spending the autumn in town went to Bangor, Oct. 28th, to witness the marriage of her maid, Miss Mary Fathes, to Mr. Alfred Breen, at the Catholic church. Both are from New Brunswick; and Mrs. Breen will spend the winter with Mrs. Hichborn and little son at the summer place of her husband's father, Dr. Herman G. Hichborn, Cambridge, Mass.

Mrs. Charles C. Park, West Main street, and her sister-in-law, Mrs. H. J. Marden, closed her house Monday and took steamer for Boston en route to Revere, Mass., where she will spend the winter with her son, Dr. Isaac P. Park and family. Mrs. Marden will remain with her daughter and husband in Dorchester, Mass., through cold weather. We in Stockton village are looking forward with pleasurable anticipations to the spring return of these genial ladies.

From Cape Jellison piers the following shipping report was telephoned Monday evening: Oct. 27th, sch. Edward Stewart sailed with lumber for New York. Oct. 28th, sch. Robert A. Snyder arrived, light, to load lumber; steamer City of Philadelphia arrived, light, for paper, and steamer Millinocket sailed with paper for Philadelphia and New York. Oct. 29th, steamer City of Philadelphia sailed with paper for Boston, and sch. Emma S. Briggs sailed with lumber for New Bedford. Nov. 1st, sch. Harriet C. Whitehead arrived, light, for lumber and sch. Edith H. Simonton sailed with potatoes for Norfolk, Va.

Miss Grace Calkin came home the middle of last week from the E. M. C. Seminary because of a short vacation at the school to allow the teachers to attend the educational convention in Portland. And Friday the pre-mistress, Miss Mabelle Randall, and the sub-mistress, Mr. Edgar Leland, accompanied by classmates of Miss Calkin, Miss Alta Bishop, Miss Gladys Babcock, Mr. Reginald Jocelyn and Mr. Philip Dalrymple, came from Bucksport and dined at the Calkin home, School street, returning in the afternoon. It was a delightful occasion for the young people, in which the instructors heartily participated. Miss Calkin returned Monday to her studies.

Mr. and Mrs. Alvah C. Treat, Mrs. Estelle B. Crooby, Miss Elva M. Randall and Miss Abbie Chase left by early train Oct. 28th for Portland to attend the State teachers convention. They all registered at the Falmouth Hotel, which hostelry still maintains its high reputation for attention and excellent service. The fine speakers, suggestions and advice given for public school instruction, management and general proficiency, were most helpful to all teachers in attendance, as well as to the superintendents. The Stockton delegation returned Saturday highly pleased with the convention, public meetings, banquet and gathering at City Hall, where an opportunity was given to hear the great organ—the third largest in America—donated by Cyrus K. Curtis, in memory of the late famous organist of Portland Hermann Kotschmeyer.

OBITUARY. Stockton mourns the decease of one of her oldest, most highly respected and for many years, prominent citizen—Mr. William Smith, who passed away Oct. 9, 1914, at his home in the upper part of the town from infirmities incident to advanced years. The deceased was born September 17, 1830, in Prospect, the son of the late William and Sarah Heagan Smith. Educated in the public schools he early determined to make himself proficient in stone cutting, a business carried on in the vicinity of his parents' home, and by industry, reliability and sound judgment he soon rose to the position of general foreman, which he acceptably held for many years. From 1858 to 1864 he filled that responsible situation at Fort Georges, Portland; and from 1873 to 1879 held that arduous place at Hurricane Island. In 1861 he married Mrs. Helen Houlton Heagan, and in 1863 bought the Seaborn farm, just beyond Stockton village on the Prospect road. In that home, he made attractive always by beautiful flowers and general cordiality, they dispensed unstinted hospitality to numerous friends for many years. No children blessed the congenial union; but one adopted daughter, Miss Hattie Moulton, found the true parental love and protection beneath their roof. In religious belief Mr. Smith was a Methodist, consistently living according to his faith until life's end. Politically he was an ardent Republican, knowing thoroughly the history and principles of his party, to which he held with the tenacity of a strong, well-balanced nature. Twice—in 1873 and in 1882—he represented his class towns in the State Legislature; and held many positions of trust in his home town. The removal by death of his cherished companion on February 8, 1913, was a bereavement from which he never recovered. Gradually the functional weaknesses increased until, tenderly cared for by the granddaughter and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Clegg, he fell asleep, to awaken in "Heaven our Home." A man of unquestioned integrity, clear perception, kindness of heart and genial hospitality, he will long be remembered by a wide circle of acquaintances, while as a generous, helpful neighbor, true friend and pleasant companion, he leaves many mourning associates around his late home, albeit all realize that the great change to him brought transition from physical debility to peace eternal. "Over the River." The funeral took place at his late home, Rev. A. J. Lockhart of Winterport attending. The burial was beside his wife in the Prospect village cemetery. An honored resident of his town, county and State he has left long, well-spent years, gone into the Great Beyond of Our Father's love.

"The dawn is not distant, Nor is the night starless. Love is eternal: God is still God, and His faith shall not fail us."

Stockton extends sympathy to the adopted daughter, her husband and family, in their hour of sorrow, and to other relatives and friends.

WHIT'S CORNER. (Winterport.) E. N. Bartlett, recently returned from several days' stay in Boston and vicinity. Mr. and Sylvanus Ward of Hampden were guests of A. G. Larby and family Sunday. The Misses Louise Libby and Laura Bickford came home Wednesday afternoon, Oct. 28th, to remain until Sunday, as there were no sessions of the Bangor High school, on account of the Teachers' Convention in Portland. Clements recently called upon Winslow Ryder of North Monroe, who has been ill for nearly a year. C. W. Nealey and wife were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Luce in Newburg Wednesday. Miss Avis Harquail came by boat from Castine Oct. 28th, to spend the remainder of the week with her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Clements. Mrs. Edna Harquail who teaches in the Grammar school in Castine, where Miss Avis is a pupil, attended the Teachers' convention. Mr. and Mrs. Charles Wills of Lynn, Mass., motored from their home to this town, arriving at F. T. Bussey's Oct. 27th. They started on their return trip last Saturday morning. C. W. Nealey recently bought of A. W. Knight of Monroe a matched span of dapple gray draft horses, four and five years old. Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Lurby of Perham arrived Saturday to visit his brother, A. G. Larby. About 25 neighbors gathered at the home of H. E. Haley last Saturday evening for an old fashioned husking. Considerable corn was husked and Mrs. Haley served a delicious supper. Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Clements entertained a large party of friends at their beautiful and spacious home last Friday evening. Nine tables were arranged for whist and an enjoyable period spent at the game, at the close of which sandwiches assorted cake and coffee were served.

FOR HEAD COLDS OR ANY CATARRH ILL

Surely use Hyomel; it quickly clears the head, stops the disagreeable nasal discharges, soothes and heals the inflamed lining of the air passages—you feel better at once.

When your nostrils are clogged, you suffer with dull headaches, or have that constant frog in the throat, Hyomel is the remedy that will give the quickest, most effective and lasting relief possible—it goes right to the cause of the trouble and quickly ends your misery. You simply breathe Hyomel, using the small inhaler that comes with every complete outfit. Hyomel immediately reaches all the raw and inflamed tissues lining the nose and throat, driving out the poisonous secretions and healing the sore spots—dull headaches vanish—your breathing is free. Even the worst cases respond quickly. It is impossible to use Hyomel and not be immediately benefited.

Hyomel can be had from A. A. Hovey & Co. and is very inexpensive.

TROY. Monday morning, Nov. 2nd, Mr. and Mrs. Fred A. Myrick were presented with a fine boy weighing 10-14 lbs. Their many friends extend congratulations and wish them much joy. The M. C. L. students were at home for several days last week, there being no school on account of the teachers' convention. They gave a Halloween entertainment at the Grange hall, Thursday evening, which was largely attended and much enjoyed. "The Great Moulton" and his company will entertain at the Grange hall next Saturday evening. E. D. Sidelinger has employment in Stockton Springs. Mrs. Aggie Estes of Fairfield is visiting old neighbors and friends in Troy. Benjamin Chandler of Lewiston was a caller at Augustus Stevens' Sunday.
